

The Bryan Faller '09 Internship Scholarship Information & Application Form

The Bryan Faller '09 Internship Fellowship was created to support a TCNJ student who is interested in pursuing an arts administration or business of the arts internship. An important aspect of the fellowship will be access to a mentorship connection between alumnus Bryan Faller and student recipients. It is also Bryan's wish that students think "big" in terms of summer internship opportunities, such as art auction house (Sotheby's, Christie's), galleries and museum internships, banking and wealth management arts businesses, etc., which while paid may require financial support for transportation and/or living expenses..

About Bryan Faller: For over a decade Bryan Faller has worked with many of the most significant international artists and estates of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries along with the academics, collectors and institutions with whom they are associated. He has worked equally as long with many of the most significant creative companies and professionals in design and is a financial advisor with The Faller Company LLC, a third-generation family-owned and operated wealth management firm. As an educator he has taught for The College of New Jersey (his alma mater) The School of The New York Times and Sotheby's Institute of Art and is the co-editor of the publication through Lund Humphries titled "Creative Legacies: Critical Essays on Artists Estates." In addition to TCNJ, Bryan holds an MA from The University of Manchester (United Kingdom), an MBA from Rutgers Business School and is an MPhil candidate at The University of Pennsylvania.

Eligibility for Scholarship:

- This scholarship is open to any student. Students who have taken AAD 220: Introduction to Arts Administration and have a strong interest in combined coursework in the Arts and Business Administration are especially encouraged to apply.
- The scholarship is open to a student who will intern in an arts administration or business of the arts internship.

Deadline: Please complete this application form before Feb 14, 2025.
